

TESTIMONIES

JAC Liberal Arts graduates remember their experience fondly

“Liberal arts has impacted my life greatly, and I still complete volunteer work for the program. Liberal arts is, overall, an excellent program, and perhaps the best because of its tight-knit community and caring professors. Options are very flexible and allow students to complete prerequisites for other university programs (outside the humanities and social sciences) as well...The program has ignited a scholarly passion and fire in my mind that cannot be attributed to any other learning experience thus far.”

“The Liberal Arts program at JAC is an excellent program. The curriculum is well set-up since it covers overlapping subjects through periods of time. The dedicated and enthusiastic Liberal Arts professors at JAC as well as my fellow class-mates made the program a memorable experience. Ideas we discussed in the program appear all the time in my arts courses (history, film and media, English, health studies) at university. My writing and thinking skills that I developed from the program have also put me at an advantage at university. The program also encourages independent thought, which has definitely changed me as a person to become more independent and well-rounded.”

“Liberal Arts was a fantastic program and there is little I would change about it. I would highly recommend it both for the sake of preparation for university and for its more personal benefits (I mean, for rounding out/giving a broader education). I wish everyone was required to take a few philosophy/history/literature courses - I genuinely think they made me a better person!”

“I am so grateful for the Liberal Arts program. I made some great friends and learned some very valuable lessons. I came to university with a very good base knowledge of history, philosophy and religion just to name a few. In my classes that I am taking now I can always relate what I'm learning to something we covered in Liberal Arts.”

“I would recommend this program to absolutely anyone who has a basic interest in the disciplines the program studies, and who is ready to put in the extra work...Coming out of the program two years later, I saw dramatic differences in my level of education, my study and critical thinking skills, and my preparedness for university.”

“I have never felt more prepared for anything than I did when I graduated from the Liberal Arts program. It is an amazing program that introduces you to the wonders of the world in all aspects: literature, art, history, philosophy. You leave John Abbott with a vast variety of knowledge and it makes you feel better about yourself and the decision you made going into Liberal Arts.”
